THE LONGEST DAY.

There is one day of the week that seems to be like indigestion, very painful. This day causes headache, insomnia, indigestion, domestic discord, and despair. On this day the children are the limit, the atmosphere is insufferable, the whole of life muddled. The day of which we speak is "churchless Sunday." It is no wonder that we hate ourselves after we have loafed all day Sunday. In the creator's plan there is no place for the Churchless Sunday that is one of man's poor inventions.

The Michelson Memorial Methodist church is one of the remedies for the Sunday troubles that folks have. It is not simply a pretty bottle with a fine label, it has something inside that is worth taking the specific for many of the ills of life. The boys of Grayling will be no different than their men. Men! let's improve on the stock by giving the boys a happy surprise next Sunday—Go to church. Pull! Pull! for the better things. Go somewhere to the house of worship.

The Sunday School is growing. One primary and beginners department is worth seeing. Do not send children too much, bring them. Sunday morning at ten-thirty, the pastor of the church preaches and again in the evening at seven-thirty. Is there a reason why five hundred people should not worship here next Sunday? Nay.

C. E. Doty, Pastor.

CLIFTON-COUCH.

Friday, September 26, a quiet wedding was performed at the Michelson Memorial church by Rev. C. E. Doty, when Miss Pearl Couch of Bryant, Ark., became the bride of C. T. Clifton.

The bride having arrived on the early morning train was met by the groom-to-be, and Mrs. Nettie Hopkins also Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Marlow. From there going to a well known boarding house, where the lady exchanged her traveling attire for a wedding gown of soft white voile, from there going to the court house to the church, where they were quietly united in marriage.

Chas. T. Clifton is well known in Grayling, having lived near here for a number of years and spent over 20 months in the service—was overseas for 13 months, having returned just recently.

They will make their home in Beaver Creek for the present, where he is engaged in the lumber work. Their many friends wish them many years of happiness and prosperity.

WARNING! DON'T DRIVE ACROSS FIRE HOSE?

The public is hereby warned not to drive over fire hose. This causes breakage and especially so when under pressure of water. Hose is expensive and from this date persons violating this warning will be compelled to pay for all damage done.

Wm. Duclous, Fire Chief.

HELD FAREWELL RECEPTION

WEST BRANCH HONORS JUDGE SHARPE.

Representatives From Every County on the Circuit in Attendance.

Activities at West Branch Friday, October 3rd, in honor of Judge Nelson Sharpe lately appointed by the Governor to the Supreme Bench of the State of Michigan to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Ostrander, and a Guy E. Smith.

JUDGE NELSON SHARPE.

Likewise appointed to succeed Judge Sharpe as Circuit Judge of the 34th Judicial Circuit, were a grand success. A large number of townspeople were present and a good time had by all. Addresses were delivered by Hon. D. P. Markey, Judge Sharpe, and Judge Smith. In the course of his address Judge Sharpe paid tribute to the people of his town, when he said that he intends to retain his home at West Branch, and stated that if his appointment to the Supreme Bench had meant that he would be obliged to abandon his home at West Branch, that he would never have accepted the appointment, and that his home will remain at West Branch as heretofore. The meeting closed with some rousing community songs led by Court Stenographer, Claude L. Austin. He is in sisting of one member from each county was elected. At 7 p. m. all repaired to the city hotel where a banquet was served to all members of the bar in honor of the two new judges. E. M. Harris officiated as toastmaster and when the smoke clouds arose Hon. D. P. Markey of Detroit gave a toast on Reminiscences. Mr. Markey was for some ten or eleven years a practicing attorney at West Branch. While at West Branch he was elected to the legislature of the state and was speaker of the house. He is an orator of wide reputation. He spoke of Judge Sharpe as having been a protégé of "our office" and said he called it "our office" because he was in the office some six or eight weeks when the judge first commenced the study of law. The toast was clever and eloquent and full of anecdotes.

A FOREIGNER'S IMPRESSIONS FROM AN AMERICAN CROSS TRIP.

The limestone contained in the water had through centuries formed a circular mound maybe twenty feet high and in the top of this was a hole maybe two or three feet long and one foot wide. Most of the time the hole was dry, but it was impossible to see far down into it, as the aperture was filled with stalagmite formations. Every sixty minutes the Old Faithful played regularly as a clock-work. First a steam cloud darted hissing out of the hole, the noise grew, then a little column of water followed and suddenly with a roaring noise a column of steam and water went up in the air, rising higher and higher, until it reached a height of almost 150 feet. The water splashed down in big sparkling diamonds and when the sun shone on this sparkling fountain, the sight was wonderful. The geyser played about 3-4 minutes, then it stopped and after five minutes the spectacle was renewed.

Old Faithful was the greatest I saw and I could not get tired of admiring it. We walked around in the geyser basin and examined geysers and hot springs—in this basin alone there are more than thirty geysers and three, four hundred hot springs. Even next to the cold water in the river there are hot springs. One of these, I remember, sent forth a coal black water—the name "the ink pot" was quite fitting. In places the ground was burning hot and everywhere boiling water poured forth through innumerable holes. The water deposits limestone and shapes the most singular formations—castles, grotoos, etc. Sometimes you hardly knew what to admire the most, the formations or the names by which they were baptized. The names gave evidence of a rich fancy.

The life in the camp was not especially agreeable. We were too many people in there. About a thousand came in every day and a thousand were shipped off to other places. We stayed in the camp for some days then we were sent off. The road took us first through a hilly country covered with jackpine. Naturally the road followed a river and turned according to its whims. The scenery in places was beautiful, but as most of the road went through a pine forest, which formed a wall on both sides of the road and cut us off from any view over the landscape, at last we got tired and were happy when we arrived at the big lake, which is located in the southern part of the park. The shores are low and forest-covered and only in the far distance did we see a mountain range rise its head over the forest. At the lake shore we saw more geysers and even out in the lake there was a hot spring. One could catch fish in the lake and get them boiled in the spring. Near the lake I saw my first bear—a black fellow with its cub. She was quite tame.

We went now towards the marsh following the shore of the broad Yellowstone river. The landscape changed character. It was open, undulating and grass covered. Anew we saw more hot springs, mud pools etc., everywhere vestiges of the action in the underworld. The river bed narrowed now, the shores became steep and rocks and boulders in the bed tried to stop the water, which formed little cascades. We passed a fine bridge spanning the river and another built over a deep canyon, in the bottom of which was a little creek running to the bigger river; we heard the roar of down tumbling water and suddenly we drove along the upper edge of the grand canyon. It is a cleft in the limestone, formed through thousands of years by the river. At the top the cleft is maybe one or two miles wide in the bottom only a few hundred feet. From the edge to the bottom the depth is about 1,500 feet. The car took us along the canyon on a road which followed the edge. I hardly dared to look down and it took a time, until I got free of the uncanny dizzy feeling, that a big abyss always causes to me. Deep down the narrow river as a green ribbon with white beads, where the water foamed over boulders and rocks and upwards the steep slopes with their pinnacles and spires, which in the setting sun beamed in all colors from pure white through yellow to deep brown and green. Some things in this world are beyond description and I can not find the adequate expressions to describe the feeling at one time sublime and on the other hand awful, that this chasm called forth. It took a time, until I understood, that it was something real and not a fancy of a bewildered brain.

We rode along the western side of the canyon and we could not from there see the great waterfall, but we heard its roaring thunder—an accompaniment well befitting to the sublime spectacle. The country around the canyon was covered with dark forests, which darkness lightened the splendid colors in the canyon. We drove back to the bridge crossing the river and arrived at last at our camp, as usually crowded, but the location was pretty. From a bench outside the camp we had a beautiful view over the upper part of the river, the surrounding landscape, and the upper fall, where the river through a narrow cleft in one leap tumbles 200 feet down into a circular basin, surrounded by rocky walls. The life in the camp was pleasant. Naturally as there was dancing in the evening and a big camp-fire outside the dining hall. As we met with people whom we had seen in Old Faithful camp, we very soon made lots of acquaintances. They were not so standoffish as there. Next morning we crawled down a— I can not say steep, perpendicular, will be the best expression, trail, which took me under the lower fall and to the bottom of the canyon. The roaring noise from the fall as it tumbles down in one leap almost 8-700 feet was deafening and it was quite bewildering to follow the white foaming water, as it plunges down. In the bottom of the canyon near the

ROOSEVELT MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED IN COUNTY.

Campaign to Raise $200.00 Will Begin October 20 and End October 27.

"He was found faithful over a few things and he was made ruler over many; he cut his own trail clean and straight and millions followed him toward the light."

The spirit that is behind the movement to erect a suitable memorial to the memory of one of our greatest Americans, Theodore Roosevelt, has spread from sea to sea and today there are in every state in the union and in nearly every county, organizations working in the interest of raising $5,000,000.00 with which to build such a memorial as will be in keeping with the high esteem held for Col. Roosevelt by the citizens of the country.

Raising the money is the smallest part of the work, and already four of our citizens have guaranteed to the National committee the entire amount. The big idea in the project is to permit all to have an opportunity to participate. This will not only be a tribute to Roosevelt but to the Americanism for which he stood.

A "get-together" meeting was held at the Court house Wednesday night and the local committee organization completed. Following are the committees thus far announced:

O. P. Schumann, county chairman. T. P. Peterson, vice chairman. Mrs. Geo. L. Alexander, vice chairman woman's committee. M. Hanson, county treasurer. A. J. Joseph, chairman of publicity. Prof. M. Otterbein, and Geo. L. Alexander, speakers' committee. Together with the above the following comprise the executive committee: Mayor Hans Petersen, Grayling; Supervisors M. A. Bates, Grayling; Charles Craven, Frederic; Wm. S.

Chalker, Maple Forest; Jas. E. Kellogg, Lovells; Oliver B. Scott, South Branch; Arthur Kile, Beaver Creek; Miss Marguerite Hoyt, commissioner of Schools; C. M. Morfit, Board of Trade; Arthur McIntyre, representing the American Legion; James Cameron, organized labor; Rev. J. J. Riess, Rev. C. E. Doty, Rev. Peter Kjolhede, representing the churches; Phillip G. Zallman, the Boy Scouts; Charles O. McCullough; Holger F. Peterson; A. M. Lewis; Emil Kraus; Frank Sales; Homer L. Fitch; Charles Abbott; Fred Welsh; Robert H. Gillett; E. W. Behlke, Harry Simpson, all of Grayling; Ed. V. Barber, and Bernard J. Kalahar, Frederic; T. E. Douglas, Lovells; C. C. Fink, Maple Forest; Boyd Funch, South Branch; Mrs. Geo. Annis, Beaver Creek.

Mass Meeting October 17. Arrangements are being made for a mass meeting to be held in the school auditorium Friday night, October 17, where there will be given a patriotic program and at least one good speech, and plenty of music. The committee in charge is already negotiating for a speaker and will assure that we will have one of the very best speakers in the state.

This is going to be a big event and one in which the small contributor is going to get just as much pleasure as the man or woman that can give $10.00 or more. Every contributor will receive a certificate acknowledging their gift.

It is not planned to hold any meetings in the various townships except that under request of the County School commissioner, there will be appropriate Roosevelt programs given in the schools, however there will be the one big county rally and it will be worth coming from all parts of the county to attend. Don't forget the date—Friday night at 7:30 o'clock, October 17, at the high school auditorium. Plan on being there and bring your neighbors.

tion of Attorney Hiram R. Smith, the chair appointed a committee to draw up a set of resolutions in appreciation of the work of Judge Sharpe as Circuit Judge of the 34th Judicial Circuit, which resolutions were adopted as drawn.

The chair then appointed a committee to draft a constitution and by-laws for a bar association of the 34th Judicial District. The constitution was drawn and adopted and steps taken to organize such an association, the principal objects of such an association being to promote social intercourse among the members, provide a uniform scale of minimum fees for professional services, and to provide for regular meetings. E. M. Harris was elected president of the association; Hiram R. Smith, secretary and treasurer. An executive committee con-

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN.

On Saturday, September 27th, there was held a meeting in the Court House of the County of Crawford that probably exceeded in importance to the agriculture of that county any meeting ever held within its confines.

On that day the Executive committee of the Crawford County Farm bureau, together with community chairmen from various of the Communities, also a good representation of the Committee on the Grasshopper control project, met and took up various matters of importance to the farming element of the county.

President Chalker laid before the Committee a report of the meeting held at the Statler Hotel in Detroit on August 6th, where the matter of a state campaign for membership was threshed out from the ground up.

This report showed that Mr. Saylor in charge of the Illinois campaign, told how 75% of the farmers of Illinois who had been approached readily signed up a three years membership with their State Farm bureau at the dollars per year. It also brot out the critical condition the farmer finds himself in today, and his awakening to the fact that he must sit at the table with organized labor, capital and industry, not only with brains but with as well a financed organization as any on earth. The officers of the Michigan State Farm bureau rose to the occasion and went on record as favoring this kind of a proposition, and the campaign has now started in Oakland county in the most intensive manner. The Crawford County committee while not taking any action on the matter discussed it at length in a broad way, showing in such discussion a vision of the work, and a depth of thought that augurs well for the spirit in which they will undoubtedly meet the issue when it arrives here.

The Committee also listened to the report of the Grasshopper Control campaign for the County Agent and the project commissionmen present and in the discussion that followed it seemed almost the unanimous opinion that this campaign had been one of the greatest things that had ever been done for the farmers of this county.

The Committee took up the matter of a County Agent for the next year, and after hearing from the County Agent in a general summarization of the work accomplished, under way and in view, he retired from the meeting and the committee after some discussion decided that Crawford County ought to employ a County Agent, and passed a resolution asking the Board of Supervisors to appropriate $600 towards salary and not to exceed $1,000 for expenses of county agent's office. The following committee was appointed to take the matter up with the Board of Supervisors at their annual meeting in October: Edwin S. Chalk-er, Frank Owens, Frank E. Love, Homer G. Benedict, G. D. Vallad and Oliver B. Scott.

HAVING SUMMER WEATHER IN CALIFORNIA.

T. W. Hanson and Family Now Located in That State.

The following letter addressed to the friends of the writer, Mr. and Mrs. Hanson recently went to California to spend the winter.

Tuesday.

Dear Friend Oscar:—

Until further notice will you kindly mail the Avalanche to me regularly to No. 353 South Gramercy Place, Los Angeles, California. I received three copies here and we are sure glad to read the home paper. We can get the Detroit papers at the news stands here so manage to keep posted on the Michigan news. We are enjoying it so much here as the weather is ideal in fact, have had regular July weather. The flowers are so beautiful as to be almost beyond description and the roads perfect boulevards. Nearly every day we have driven somewhere and a trip of 100 miles here is as easy as driving to Lovell and back from Grayling.

We see a great deal of Arthur Fournier and as there is to be a big Michigan picnic on Catalina Island soon which we hope to attend will no doubt meet other Michigan folks, whom we know. The tourist travel out here is tremendous and it is almost impossible to find a room or a table at any hotel. We are all well and wish to be especially remembered to your family and with all good wishes I am

Sincerely,

T. W. Hanson.

An Old Fault Finder.

An irritable and fault finding disposition is often caused by indigestion. A man with good digestion and bowels that act regularly is usually good natured. When troubled with indigestion or constipation take Chamberlain's tablets. They strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. They also cause a gentle movement of the bowels. Adv.

A Great Remedy.

The merits of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea remedy are well known and appreciated, but there is occasionally a man who had no acquaintance with them and should read the following by F. H. Dear, a hotel man at Du-puyer, Mont. "Four years ago I used Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea remedy with such wonderful results that I have since recommended it to my friends." Adv.

A Change in Plans.

One of the strangest weddings I ever heard of was that of a couple out west. The mother of the bride not approving of her son-in-law to be, selected one of her own kinsmen. Arrangements were made for a large house wedding. When the guests were arriving the bride-to-be slipped quietly out of a rear door, met the lover of her choice, and together they galloped away on horseback to an adjoining village and were married, leaving the deserted groom and wedding party behind.—Exchange.

GOODBY,

WOMEN'S TROUBLES

The tortures and discomforts of weak, lame and aching back, swollen feet and limbs, weakness, dizziness, nausea, as a rule have their origin in kidney trouble, not "female complaints." These general symptoms of kidney and bladder disease are well known—so is the remedy.

Next time you feel a twinge of pain in the back or are troubled with headache, indigestion, insomnia, irritation in the bladder or pain in the joints and lower abdomen, you will find quick and sure relief in GOLD MEDAL Haaslem Oti Capsules. This old and tried remedy for kidney trouble and all derangements has stood the test for hundreds of years. It does the work. Pains and troubles vanish and new life and health will come as you continue their use. When completely restored to your usual vigor, continue taking a capsule or two each day.

GOLD MEDAL Haaslem Oti Capsules are imported from the laboratories at Haaslem, Holland. Do not accept a substitute. In sealed boxes, three sizes.—Adv.

Break! Break! Break!

"Let's go to the beach for a few weeks," said Brown's wife. "Just think, dear of the soothing murmur of the sea, the constant breaking of the waves and—"

"And the equally constant breaking of the $20 bills," put in her more practical husband.—Boston Evening Transcript.

DEWS OF EVE

No More Gentle Than "Cascarets" for the Liver, Bowels

It is just as needless as it is dangerous to take violent or nasty cathartics. Nature provides no shock absorbers for your liver and bowels against colic, harsh pills, sickening oil and salts. Cascarets give quick relief without injury from Constipation, Bloating, indigestion, Gases and Sick Headache. Cascarets work while you sleep, removing the toxins, poisons and sour, indigestible waste without gripping or inconvenience. Cascarets regulate by strengthening the bowel muscles. They cost so little too.—Adv.

ONCE A TERM OF REPROACH

"Grass Widow" Used by Teutons to Indicate an Unmarried Mother—Other Possible Origins.

The term "grass widow" very likely originated from the wording of an ancient law of the eleventh century which ordained that a widow should remain "under God's protection and grace" for a full year after her husband's death, and then marry if she pleased. Such women were "widows of grace" and in later parish registers they are described as "grasses widows." In the time of Sir Thomas More the term "grass widow" was applied to unmarried mothers, and in this sense it was used in most of the Teutonic languages. In modern times the term lost that reproach, and has been applied to the wives of men long absent from home. Another explanation of its origin is found here in the United States. During the days of gold rushes it was common for men to board on their wives until they had made enough to start a home in the West, and this, in the picturesque speech of the time, was termed "putting one's widow out to grass."

She Wanted a Brother.

The Nurse—What do you think of the new baby sister the doctor left for you?

Little Elsie—I don't blame the doctor for wanting to get rid of it. But why did he pick on us?

ASPIRIN FOR HEADACHE

Name "Bayer" is on Genuine Aspirin—say Bayer

Insist on "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" in a "Bayer package," containing proper directions for Headache, Colds, Pain, Neuralgia, Lumbago, and Rheumatism. Name "Bayer" means genuine Aspirin prescribed by physicians for nineteen years. Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets cost few cents. Aspirin is trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.—Adv.

Burglar a Benefactor.

The dark lantern flashed through the flat. Then came the gleam of a revolver.

"Hands up!" hissed the head of the family. "You're a burglar."

"Y-yes," gasped the intruder. "What have you stolen?"

"Your wife's pink dog."

"H-m! If that's all you may sneak out quietly."

"And your mother-in-law's parrot."

"Really? Well, here is some loose change."

"And your daughter's gramophone."

"Good! Here's some more loose change."

"Also your son's violin."

"What! Great Scott, man, I'll open a special bottle. There certainly will be some peace in this flat from now onward."

A SUMMER COLD

A cold in the summer time, as everybody knows, is the hardest kind of a cold to get rid of. The best and quickest way is to go to bed and stay there if you can, with a bottle of "Boschee's Syrup" handy to insure a good night's rest, free from coughing, with easy expectoration in the morning.

But if you can't stay in bed you must keep out of draughts, avoid sudden changes, eat sparingly of simple food and take occasional doses of Boschee's Syrup, which you can buy at any store where medicine is sold, a safe and efficient remedy, made in America for more than fifty years. Keep it handy.—Adv.

WHO NAMED PONT D'ARCOLE?

Only Legend Relied On to Account for Appellation Given Famous Bridge in Paris.

Though it is getting on for nearly a hundred years since the old Pont de la Greve in Paris has been known as the Pont d'Arcole, nobody yet has been able to give chapter and verse for the change. Now that the anniversary of the three days of July, 1830, the 27th, 28th, and 29th, which Paris dubbed Les Trois Glorieuses, has passed to be kept, it is likely that this age of local history will remain obscure. In the old days the Pont de la Greve was merely a footway for passengers. In the troublous year when Paris rose, the Tuilleries palace was sacked and the king fled to England, a young lieutenant leading a column of insurgents charged across the bridge with a flag in his hand shouting: "Follow me! and if I fall know that my name is Arcole" or Darcole. So runs the legend. The famous incident at the Pont d'Arcole when Bonaparte, flag in hand, heading his grenadiers, beat the Austrians, must have been some reason for giving the bridge the name of Pont d'Arcole a few days later. There is no record of who gave the order for the change. No record at all of anything connected with the incident. It is one of the minor "mysteres de Paris."—Christian Science Monitor.

A Bit Too Much.

During a concert in a Scottish hall the official who was collecting tickets at the door sought out the caretaker.

"Ch' canny, mon, or ye'll be haein' trouble," he whispered mysteriously.

"Beccany—no less!" was the ticket collector's awed reply. "I've let in two wimmen who said that they wis the caretaker's wife, and noo there's a third yin wantin' to come in."

Too Ill to Work

Scores of Women

in homes, stores, offices and factories are not fit to be at work. They toil on day after day and year after year suffering with distressing weaknesses and derangements, hoping against hope that they will soon feel better, but how can they hope to do good work or escape permanent invalidism?

Such women are in danger of derangement of women's functions. They owe it to themselves to try that good old fashioned root and herb remedy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for more than forty years has been restoring American Women to health and strength.

Here is a Notable Example

Joplin, Missouri.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to see if it really would do as it was advertised and it sure did, and more. I was weak and could not do much work, had bearing down pains and had to go to bed. I learned about the Vegetable Compound from my mother and my husband told me to get it. After taking one bottle I was able to be on my feet most of the time and do my work again. I have a baby eleven months old and I have done all my own work, even the washing and ironing since she was three weeks old. I certainly recommend your great medicine to everyone who complains of female trouble and I am more than willing for you to use my testimonial."

—Mrs. TIMOTHY GRANEY.

And Another

Chicago, Illinois.—"I suffered for four years with pains in my sides, hips and legs and a terrible backache. I could not do any work at all. I was treated by many physicians but they did not help me. I read in one of your books where other women have been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I tried it and it helped me very much so that now I can do everything in the house. I have told my friends about Vegetable Compound and you have my permission to use this letter."—Mrs. I. OVENSTEIN, 902 S. Marshfield Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Too Much Luck.

"It is very wrong to envy any man his prosperity."

"Of course, it is," replied Cactus Joe. "But when Tarantula Tim holds these ace fells in succession we're entitled to indulge in a certain amount of inquisitiveness about the deck and the deal."

Important to Mothers

Internal Trouble.

Allen had been eating green apples and had cramps in his stomach, but did not mention it for fear of getting a scolding. He was sent on an errand to the neighbor's, but was obliged to stop on the way and lie across a stump till the cramps left him. When he returned he was asked to give an account of himself for being gone so long.

"Well, mother," he explained, clasping his hands across his stomach, with a grimace, "I was delayed on account of engine trouble."

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Pro and Con. "They tell me women have no strength of character."

A FOREIGNER'S IMPRESSIONS FROM AN AMERICAN CROSS TRIP.

ice cold river were curiously enough some hot springs. But I didn't like to stay there, I had an uneasy feeling caused by the reverberating thunder from the fall and the depth of the canyon which reduced my personality to nothing and I crawled up again—a trip that took my wind completely. I walked along the eastern edge of the canyon until I came to the artist's point.

This point is hanging almost over the canyon. When you have over-whelmed the dizzy feeling, that the abyss below your feet involuntarily gives, you have from there the greatest view of the canyon. In the background you have the snow-white lower fall plunging down between yellow, rocky sides as a glittering silver mass. You can follow the river in the appalling depth, soon green as a field in springtime, soon shining white. You have a view over the sides of the canyon with its pinnacles and towers and its fascinating colors—yellow changing into orange, vivid green and deep brown, pink going through cinnamon to deep red, which changes to almost black. I am sure that a painter would go insane should he try to fasten the colors on the canvass, even if he mixed all possible colors, he couldn't give an idea about the splendor and especially about the harmony in the colors. Nature is undoubtedly the greatest painter of all. Naturally I spent all the time I could at the canyon, but nevertheless I left it unsatisfied, for you can never get tired of admiring nature in its greatest form.

Round the camp we saw posters, telling that it was dangerous to feed the bear and quite naturally we were looking for them everywhere. Riding in a car I saw a big cinnamon bear in distance, but a big cinnamon bear came near them. We had a full moon, but I will not try to give an idea about the landscape, the foaming river and the canyon in the moonlight, which lends such a fantastic splendor to nature. I walked alone along the river, as I was told, that the bear came down in the evening to drink. I saw none. A sportsman, a fisher, whom I met returning to his camp, told me, that three black bear had paid him a visit, while he was fishing, and that he hadn't appreciated the visit. I wished, I had been in his place, though undoubtedly I wouldn't have felt like a hero in the presence of the bear. Meanwhile one forenoon my wish was fulfilled. We had had oranges for breakfast and the peelings were taken out to the camp dump. I was there together with my fellow traveller. From the forest came first a little black bear, then a bigger one and undoubtedly they enjoyed the feast. Suddenly two griz-zies appeared and immediately the black bears hurried away through peeling and tin cans to some trees, which they climbed easily. Now the grizzlies enjoyed the peeling, but then came a enormous black bear from the forest at which sight the grizzlies sneaked away. One of them passed near by us, maybe at a distance of fifteen feet, suddenly he stopped and looked at us and he didn't look amiable at all. Frankly told, I was frightened and went to the nearest tree ready to climb it—a grizzly cannot climb trees, but having looked at us for some time the grizzly went quietly away.

Round the camp there were a lot of groundhogs many had their holes under the tents, they came forth, when we whistled and took the food from our hands. Undoubtedly the wild animals had the feeling, that they were living in a paradise. I stayed at the camp for some days. I should like to have stayed for a longer time, but we couldn't keep our tent and we were shipped away in due time together with some other parcels. We drove over the slopes of Mt. Washburn, a peak more than 10,000 feet high, some miles from the canyon. From the height we had a splendid view over deep valleys, carpeted with mats of green treetops over an undulating country with single groups of trees, like an immense park and in the far distance snow-covered peaks. It was very cold up in the height and icy wind went through us and we were happy when at last we reached the camp and rode through a pretty landscape with open grass plains. We passed a little waterfall, which plunged down some hundred feet in a dark pine-covered canyon, we followed the edge of a deep, deep narrow canyon with black basalt walls formed like the pillars in the Pinal cave, we saw a high, high forest with stately old trees, not only fir but also elms and maples. We passed little lakes, where the beavers did their work and towards evening we arrived at Mammoth Hot Springs camp. Pouring up from the ground these springs have brought from the stratum in the earth limestone and deposit it in terraces. Several hundred feet high and these terraces are most beautifully colored with all shades of yellow and brown with streaks of green and red and when they are illuminated by the sun, the view is most wonderful. These hot springs are near the northern entrance to the park and hundreds of visitors poured in daily, but happily, we could keep our tent and stay there for some days. The landscape is great. On one side the beautiful, multicolored terraces and on the other side fine peaks, some with white snowcaps. Near by the camp was the fort, the military station from old days, when the Park was the hunting ground of the Indians and also near was the corral with the buffalo herd. The "last of the Mohicans." To save the last buffaloes from destruction the Government has taken them into the park and it looks, as if the buffaloes like to stay there, at least the herd has developed itself very much. The bulls are enormous. What a sight it must have been, when the thousands galloped forth. Here they live in a big corral, but they are very wild and dangerous to approach.

We left at last the camp for our last drive through the park and this time towards the south. First the car climbed a mountain side and we came then through the Golden Gate, a pass in the mountains, where the rocky walls rise high over the road. The road, a deep canyon with a little creek and then the mountain wall at the other side. Meanwhile we are soon out of it and cross a pretty plain with blue lakes and as back-ground high mountain peaks. The forest, which until now had kept itself in the distance, came nearer enclosed the road and from now the car was continually through a forest of jackpines. We pass some mineral springs and saw a white smoke through the trees announcing that we are near a new geyser basin. We reach it. Steam and boiling water jump up from circular pools with blue and green water, but any of them play very high in the air. The steam is hissing and roaring forth from holes in many places and in places the noise was quite uncanny.

The landscape was not beautiful. The overflow from the springs had killed many of the trees in the surroundings and the dead stumps half hidden by a grayish limestone, didn't look pretty. We were not sorry to leave this place, maybe we also were a little tired of all these hot springs. We met now with a pretty river and the road followed it. We went down wards and the river did so, sometimes hastening down in pretty falls. We passed a new hot springs, who sent forth boiling water, mud and a most disagreeable odor and as told, we had almost got too much of hot springs. The forest was as infested with them and we were not sorry, when we took leave with the last of them and came out in a level country, where we followed the shore of a broad river. In the afternoon we arrived at Yellowstone depot in time for the train towards the south. We now left the park, boarded a train and arrived after an interesting trip through a canyon, in the bottom of which a wild river foamed on, at Idaho Falls, a fine city—at least that part of it, which we saw was fine, but we stayed only until next forenoon and left then for Butte, at which place we arrived in the evening.

We had seen somewhere that in a little city—"Bozeman" was to be given a wild west show—Indians, cowboys, etc., and for this reason we left Butte for a little trip on a hundred miles towards the east. As told I had learned not to reckon with a hundred miles more or less. We reached the city in the forenoon. It was located in a fertile valley, but in some distance the mountains rose to the south and the west. The train had been very crowded and at each stop people were entering the cars, but we hadn't believed, that so many people, as was the case, had followed the call. It is a feeble expression to tell, that the city was crowded; not even so. Broadway here, I seem so, many people at a time on the street. Rooms were not to be had. In the hotels they told, that many people had passed the night in the street and maybe it was their idea that we ought to do the same. Food was almost impossible to get, but I must add, that prices were not excessive. At noon a parade went through the streets, which were finely decorated. In the parade were a lot of music bands dressed more or less wonderfully, members of visiting societies and—last but not least—cowboys and Indians in full war paint. It was most interesting to look at. We have at home through movies and American novels from the west formed a popular picture of the cowboy—a good-looking young fellow dressed in the typical dress, that is highest fashion at the fancy dress balls, who rides like a daredevil and who at the bottom is a chivalrous gentleman. Old cattlemen tell, that this figure never did exist, or at least doesn't exist any more. Maybe so. But I have in many places in Montana met with the type or at least my ideal cowboy—less the gun—and I have always been glad to meet him. Not only is it a pleasure to see him in the saddle but besides he is very courteous, amiable and ready to oblige you. The dress suits them usually and there is a certain tint of romance over them. Not to wonder that they are the heroes of every boy. In the afternoon the spectacle in the arena took its beginning. The arena—a wooden structure—could contain a 15,000 on-lookers and no place was empty. We saw excellent riding, breaking of bronchos, cow punching, etc. We saw how the cowboys could use the lariat, how to catch and bind the steer and their exploits were sometimes very dangerous looking. It was called a wild west show on the posters with postscript, "you bet it is wild" and really it was so.

I went around and looked at the many different types and made acquaintance with some of the cowboys, as told good types. Also amongst the Indians I saw fine types. They were in full war paint and some of them had more feathers on than clothes. As told I walked round looking at everything, even I tried to figure up, how many automobiles were parked outside the arena. I came until two thousand but stopped then, as it would take too much time to figure up the rest. The life in the street was bewildering and we were happy to get away into the night. A seat in the car was not to be had, but we didn't care, if only we could get away.

We reached Missoula in the forenoon and were back in Corvallis in the afternoon.

Big forest fires were raging in the mountains near Corvallis and the smoke was lying dense and yellow over the valley. It was impossible to see 5-600 feet and naturally the mountain ranges were hidden by a curtain of smoke and ashes covered vegetation and the ground.

I then made up my mind to leave and boarded in Missoula a west going train. We passed through a beautiful, mountain landscape following the course of a broad river. Unhappily, the smoke was hanging over the mountains in many places. The train went upwards through windings along the mountain side, we passed tunnels and narrow canyons, where every tree had fallen as victim for the fires, we crossed the divide and in the night we passed Spokane. Next morning we were in a fertile country with fine irrigated fields. The harvesting was going on and it looked, as if the crop was rich, though there was too much weed amongst it. We saw pretty farms surrounded by fruit gardens and lots of cattle was grazing everywhere more than I hitherto had seen in a farmland. We followed then for some time the course of a big river and entered anew the mountains. First up to the top and then down. Stately fir, the tallest I had seen, were standing along the creek but in many places the forest was burned and only black stumps left. The smoke was hanging over the landscape and it became denser, the nearer we came to the Pacific coast.

At noon I arrived at Seattle. From the stately depot I came out into busy streets, where automobiles by hundreds went in all directions. The city has 40,000 automobiles for 425,000 inhabitants. This is undoubtedly a record. The city is built on some hills. The big streets in the business quarter run parallel the coastline and are connected by short cross streets, which have an elevation of which I hardly can give an idea. The big streets, which run through these, were for this reason drawn by cables. The business quarter was the usual one, that you will find in any bigger American city. High skyscrapers with offices on all stories next to single-storied wooden structures, huge, heavy official buildings, streets crossing each other at right angles with a drug store, ice cream bar at each corner. Many of the buildings have a fine architecture, but the general impression is lack of individuality. Outside the business quarter you will be agreeably surprised. Seldom have I seen so many pretty cottages as here. Not only were the avenues beautified with fine shade trees and splendidly kept gardens, but many of the cottages were built with realistic taste. Even the bungalows looked pretty, covered as they were with creepers and vines, and the gardens in front of them had lawns like green velvet carpets. Seattle can boast of a row of public parks, where nature and art hand in hand have done their utmost to create beauty. The ground is hilly and the specimens of the different trees are some times unique. The roads through the parks are made with great art, so that you always will have a changing view with which the track was laid—bridges spanning deep canyons, tunnels winding in the mountain, sometimes from a mountain slope high up you could see a greater part of the track deep down and it looked like a loop the loop. We passed through burning forests and in places the smoke was very dense. At last we came through the mountains and passed the Columbia river. Soon we left the State of Washington entered Montana and came through a beautiful country, passed in the evening at Great Falls arrived next morning at Glacier Park, went through a beautiful mountain country and came at last out into North Dakota's plains. Next day we reached South Dakota, came in the night to Minneapolis and next forenoon to Milwaukee—it takes a time to cross this continent. I crossed anew Lake Michigan and reached Grayling in the afternoon.

THE END.

Constipation.

The beginning of almost every serious disorder is constipation. If you want to enjoy good health keep your bowels regular. This is best accomplished by proper diet and exercise, but sometimes a medicine is needed and when that is the case you will find Chamberlain's Tablets are excellent. They are mild and gentle in their action, easy and pleasant to take. Give them a trial. They only cost a quarter. Adv.

An Agreeable Surprise.

"About three years ago when I was suffering from a severe cold on my lungs and coughed most of the time night and day, I tried a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and was surprised at the promptness with which it gave me relief," writes Mrs. James Brown, Clark Mills, N. Y. Many another has been surprised and pleased with the prompt relief afforded by this remedy. Adv.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

This remedy is intended especially for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. From a small beginning its sale and use has extended to all parts of the United States and to many foreign countries. This alone is enough to convince one that it is a medicine of more than ordinary merit. Give it a trial and you will find this to be the case. Adv.

ACT QUICKLY.

Do the right thing at the right time. Act quickly in time of danger. In time of kidney danger, Doan's Kidney Pills are most effective. Plenty of evidence of their worth in this vicinity.

Mrs. Mary Marsh, Fifth St., West Branch, Mich., says: "I had considerable trouble from weak kidneys. My back ached intensely and when I stooped I had such sharp pains in my back it took away my breath. My eyes bothered me a great deal and frequently I had dizzy spells. Nothing helped me until I gave Doan's Kidney Pills a trial. The first box of Doan's made me feel like a different person and three boxes cured me of the kidney weakness and pains in my back."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Marsh had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y. Adv.
